QUIET ELECTION FACES SIDNEY VOTERS THURSDAY

—Three Candidates

Sidney village electors will go to the polls on Thursday, Dec. 11, to cast their ballots in one of the quietest elections since the establishment of the village. With two seats falling vacant and only three candidates, electors are faced with a straight choice for the first time. In previous years there has been a slate of candidates several times greater than the number of seats available. Two candidates are sponsored by the Sidney Ratepayers' Association and one is running as an independent. Endorsed candidates are Commissioner T. A. Aiers and Lieut.-Col. Howard Larocque, while Mrs. Eileen Casson is an independent.

Candidates lining up for Thursday are as follows:

Commissioner T. A. Aiers, Third St., Sidney. Retired civil servant; serving currently as chairman of the finance committee.

Mrs. Eileen Casson, Fourth St., Sidney. Housewife and manager of a car rental service.

Lieut.-Col. Howard Larocque, Rotheray Ave., Sidney. Retired army officer.

Finance Committee Chairman Returns To Seek New Term

Serving as chairman of the finance committee of Sidney village council for the past two years, Commissioner T. A. Aiers looks back on a long association with public accounts.

For many years he was engaged in that capacity in Hong Kong. Came the Second World War and he lost much of what he had been working for.

At the close of the war Commissioner Aiers settled in Sidney and joined the staff of the immigration service here. Last year he retired from the public service and withdrew to his home on Third St.

During his service on the council Commissioner Aiers has gained not for his determined support of his views despite opposition which might be offered.

Commissioner Aiers is also chairman of the finance committee of SANSCHA. With Mrs. Aiers, he is enjoying his retirement. One daughter is away from Sidney, while a second, Mrs. O. H. Henriksen, resides with her family in the vicinity of his home.

Commissioner Aiers is going to the polls with the support of Sidney Ratepayers' Association.

Another Lady Seeks Service On Sidney Village Council

For the second time in the short history of Sidney village council a woman has come forward to seek election. She is Mrs. Arthur Casson of Fourth St. Housewife and car rental agent, Mrs. Casson is making her first entry into municipal affairs. Mother of two children and owner of a new home in Sidney, Mrs. Casson has lived here with her family for the past five years. Mrs. Vivian Cowan served on the council until last year.

Mrs. Casson explained that she is presenting herself because she is keenly interested in the affairs of her adopted community. She represents no particular group or clique, explained the candidate.

Mr. and Mrs. Casson came to Canada from England in 1953. Formerly residing in Lancashire, they felt the draw of distant green fields and settled here almost as soon as they arrived in this country. For several years they have been preparing and building their own home.

Mr. Casson is an employee of B.C. Forest Products, while Mrs. Casson is manager of the car rental service at Patricia Bay Airport.

VETERAN
A veteran of the air force, Mrs. Casson served in the W.A.A.F. in England during the war. Previously she had been engaged as a weaver in England's cotton county and she had spent a number of years nursing.

Already experienced with modifying and renovating their own home, the couple purchased and completely rebuilt a house in their native country before leaving England to design and build their home in the Orchard.

After 27 Years In Army He Seeks Office In Civil Life

New entry into the Sidney village political arena is Lieut.-Col. Howard Larocque, retired army officer and a village resident for the past year. Making his first entry into public life, Col. Larocque came into the picture at the last minute, having announced his intention to run on Friday of last week.

The 55-year-old veteran has travelled from his native city. The retired army man has served for 27 years with the Canadian army. A graduate of the Royal Military College at Kingston, he saw active service with the occupation forces at Wilhelmshaven.

Later Col. Larocque served in West Berlin, arriving there shortly after the airlift which kept West Berlin in touch with the outer world despite Russian restrictions on free access to the city.

Ferry Goes Ahead

—No Delay

State of Washington Ferries will operate for the 1959 season from the present wharf in Sidney.

The ferry situation in Sidney was clarified for The Review this week by I. D. Birse, general manager of Washington State Ferries in Seattle.

Following is Mr. Birse's statement in full:

"It was a great disappointment to learn of the federal government's decision not to proceed to the present with the building of the ferry terminal at the new location at Sidney.

BUILDING STARTED

"The Washington State Ferries has commenced building a new $625,000 ferry terminal at Anacortes, and is in the process of completing an enlargement program for vessels in the Sidney-Anacortes service, and this program was predicated on the assurance that suitable terminal facilities would be available at Sidney for the commencement of the summer tourist season in June, 1959.

"As the federal government has now decided, for the time being, not to proceed with the building of the new terminal at Sidney, Washington State Ferries will, of course, use the present dock at Sidney, and it is hoped that this facility will be temporarily improved so as to allow the larger capacity ferry vessels to operate into the Port of Sidney for this coming season.

FERRY ENLARGED

"The ferry vessel Klickitat has been enlarged and improved so as to increase the car carrying capacity to 95, and will have a vertical clearance of 13 feet 6 inches to take care of large trucks moving into the area, and this vessel will be in service March 22, 1959.

"It is, therefore, essential that the present terminal at Sidney, which is totally inadequate, be sufficiently improved by that time to enable us to bring in the larger vessels at the present Sidney terminal."

LINE OF STAKES HINTS AT NEW HIGHWAY ROUTE

Line of surveyors' stakes, driven during the past several days, indicates the possible route to be followed by the northerly part of the new Patricia Bay Highway after it leaves its junction with the present road a short distance north of Queens Ave.

The line goes directly through the orchard on the property of William John, on the present highway, and following a straight course, passes close to the home formerly owned by Joseph John, on John Road. Continuing, it skirts the reservoir on the Barclay farm, and goes through the incinerator near the turnaround in McDougal Park.

A short distance beyond this point, the route makes a 90-degree turn towards the east, and again

RETURNS HOME BUT

BOY NOT YET RECOVERED FROM HALLOWE'EN INJURY

After six weeks in hospital in Victoria, Raymond Warburton, aged 13 years, returned to his home at Central last week-end.

Raymond received a very serious eye injury just prior to Halloween, when he was playing with firecrackers and a toy rifle. He placed a wooden plug in the stock end of the barrel and put a firecracker in the muzzle. When he raised it to aim the firecracker slid down the barrel and shot the plug into his eye. It will still be some months before it is known if the sight can be saved following another operation.

In the meantime it is a slow healing process. Raymond was most grateful and thankful for the letters he received from everyone in his grade 7 at the Ganges school, including his teacher, J. Wickens.

Gifts of candy and nuts were sent to him from his class, as well as others in the school, for which he says a sincere "Thank you".

Motor Licences On Sale

Motor vehicle licenses in the village of Sidney will in future be handled by the municipal office of the Sidney village council. In addition to motor vehicle licenses the office will also issue drivers' licenses in the case of renewals and chauffeur's licenses.

The village arrangement came into effect on December 1.

All residents of the district, and beyond, may obtain their licenses in Sidney without travelling into Victoria or carrying out the transaction by mail.

The new procedure has been sought for a number of years by the Sidney village council. Active in gaining the necessary authority was Commissioner A. A. Cormack.

J. J. White Succumbs Wednesday

The death occurred at Rest Haven hospital on Wednesday morning, Dec. 4, of James J. White, aged 90 years, resident of Sidney since 1892. He had been in failing health for some weeks but the end came suddenly this morning shortly before The Review went to press. The deceased had observed his 90th birthday on Saturday last and an account of this milestone, with his picture, appears on the back page of this newspaper which was printed prior to his passing.

Remains have been entrusted to Sands Mortuary in Sidney and last rites will be observed Friday at 2 p.m. at St. Andrew's church. Rev. Roy Melville officiating. Cremation will follow at Royal Oak Burial Park.

A full account of Mr. White's long association with this community will appear in the next issue of this newspaper.

COMMISSION WILL HEAT SANSCHA HALL

Heating for SANSCHA hall for junior groups will be paid for by Sidney Recreation Commission, Arthur Freeman of the commission told the annual meeting of the hall group last week. Because no rent was charged the clubs, SANSCHA could not afford to provide the heat, and the Recreation Commission's offer to pay $60 for heating the hall for the clubs until next March was accepted.

Estimated cost of operating the hall furnace is $2 per hour. Clubs affected are the Sidney Girls' Drill team, the junior rifle club, the junior archery club, and the boxing club, all of which use the hall from 6.30 to 8 p.m. one night per week.

The recreation commission also agreed that all equipment which had been given the various organizations would, in the event of the termination of their activities, become the property of SANSCHA.

BIG SLATE PRESENTED FOR CENTRAL SAANICH

—Six Council Candidates

While no candidate has appeared to contest the reeve's council election is marked with six candidates for three seats. Last year there were only sufficient candidates to fill the vacant seats and no election ensued. All candidates are running independently and none has been named by any ratepayers' group. One candidate is a sitting councillor and the remaining four are all newcomers.

Following are the candidates lined up for Central Saanich municipal election on Thursday, Dec. 11:

Edward Glover, Old West Road. Retired naval officer and fruit grower.

Councillor Frank Grimshaw, Mount Newton Cross Road. Retired B.C. provincial police and R.C.M.P. officer.

Charles Harris, Keating Crossroad, Plumber and pipefitter; officer of Central Saanich Chamber of Commerce.

R. Gordon Lee, Clarke Road. Retired Yukon merchant and miner and an officer of Brentwood Memorial Chapel.

C. W. Mollard, Stellys Crossroad.

Former prairie businessman and California merchant currently serving as secretary of Saanich Fruit Growers' Association.

Mrs. Gladys Ronson, Clarke Road, Past president and officer of Brentwood Women's Institute and organizer at Brentwood United church.

Only one seat remains unfilled in Central Saanich and that is the vacancy for a school trustee. With the retirement of Ernest "Lucky" Lee from that office the seat on Saanich School District remains unfilled. This has occurred on a number of occasions in the past, when a school trustee has been appointed by order-in-council following failure of any candidate to come forward.

Former Police Officer Comes Back To Seek Re-election

Veteran of the old B.C. provincial police and later with the R.C.M.P., Councillor Frank Grimshaw joined Central Saanich council last year when the board was augmented under the terms of the new Municipal Act.

Retired to a home on Mount Newton Crossroad, Councillor Grimshaw has resided in Saanich municipality for 42 years. He came to the island as a child and never looked back.

For 27 years he served as a police officer, retiring from the R.C.M.P. with the rank of sergeant.

Councillor Grimshaw resides with his wife and family in the Saanich area. His daughter, Judith, was a contestant in the Sidney queen contest this year, gaining a top position, when she was elected princess for the year.

The candidate has resided for the past four years in Central Saanich.

COUNCILLOR FRANK GRIMSHAW

He was elected last year by acclamation when his candidacy was uncontested.

He Faced Cold of 72-Below And Still Likes Klondyke Life

The mercury falls very low in the Klondyke. Resident of the Yukon for 36 years, H. Gordon Lee of Clarke Road, Brentwood, newcomer to Central Saanich public life, finds no criticism for the recent chilly mornings.

Mr. Lee has known it colder. He recalls the day in Mayo when he was splitting wood in a 72-below temperature. Without criticism of the northern climate, Mr. Lee speaks of extreme cold as if it were something to be faced on occasion everywhere. He found that it was impossible to remain out of doors for indefinite periods in that degree of cold. He would work, well clad, for about eight minutes, he recalls, then he would have to give it heat and return to his house to warm up again. He had to remain in the heated house for 15 or 20 minutes to recover the latent heat drawn from the body.

There was no oil in Mayo; there still is none. Lying 300 miles or so to the north of Whitehorse, the distance would be prohibitive in terms of cost. All heating is by wood and when a sudden cold snap descends on the community it is a case of bringing in wood until the snap is ended.

Fights Election After Year Of Fighting Russian Reds

Probably the only candidate in any municipal election in the Dominion this year to look back on a year of fighting the Russian revolutionaries is C. W. Mollard, of Stellys Cross Road. Merchant, oil company representative and farmer, Mr. Mollard is currently serving as secretary of Saanich Fruit Growers' Association.

A veteran of the First World War, Mr. Mollard went overseas with the 4th Battery, Canadian Field Artillery. Promoted to sergeant in France, and wounded at Passchendaele, an aviator relinquished his rank in order to be posted to Russia. For more than a year he served on the Russian front, concerned with both the German enemy across the lines and the revolutionary forces behind. For a time he was fighting with Canadian, Scottish, British Foreign Legion, American and White Russian allies.

He recalls that the Russians were simple people, largely taken up with their loyalty to the Czar and to the Russian Orthodox Church. They were not ready for the violent change during the revolution, he recalls. ... Continued on page four

COUNTER DOORS PROVIDED BY CHILDREN

Resulting from the efforts of six children of the Orchard district of Sidney last summer, sliding doors and locks will be provided for the coffee counter at SANSCHA hall.

The children, Victor and Wayne Vollrath, Sylvia and Linda Mills, and Jill and Barry Cowan staged a variety show for other children of their district, charging five cents admission to the show. The entrance fees, plus returns from the sale of refreshments and small articles, and donations, brought $20, which the producers of the show turned over to SANSCHA, on the condition that it be used for the counter improvements.

Other organizations in the district

Confirmed

R. C. Derrinberg, former school trustee, now groundsman with the Saanich School District has been confirmed in his appointment. Trustees announced recently that his period of probation was completed and that he would be engaged on a full-time basis as groundsman to take charge of the grounds in all schools in the district.

The trustees asked Mr. Derrinberg to submit a list of recommendations regarding work to be undertaken. An earlier request had been referred to the maintenance foreman by Mr. Derrinberg.

He was urged at the annual meeting of SANSCHA last week to undertake to provide similar specific recommendations of the hall.

The Shoal Bay group of St. Paul's United church held the regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 26, at the home of Mrs. F. Kortmeyer, Moxom Terrace, with Mrs. W. S. Dawson presiding. Following the devotional period given by Mrs. Kortmeyer, minutes and financial report of previous meeting were read by Mrs. H. J. Kemp in the absence of the secretary-treasurer. Dinner was served by this group to the A.O.T.S. members on November 25. Officers for 1959 were elected as follows: convener, Mrs. W. S. Dawson; first vice-president, Mrs. F. Reid; secretary, Mrs. H. Scott-Brown Nuptials At St. Paul's United Church

St. Paul's United church, Sidney, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday, Nov. 29, when the Rev. C. H. Whitmore united in marriage Miss Yvonne Joan Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Wittrup and Wilfred Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Scott also of Sidney. The church was decorated with carnations and Howard Vine was the organist. A husband sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white lace and net. A long sleeved jacket of lace covered the brief top and the ballerina length bouffant lace skirt was banded with net and was deeper at the back and draped to a saum bow. A beautiful embroidered waist-length veil covered her dark hair and she carried a bouquet of red and white carnations.

ATTENDANTS

Her attendants' gowns were of similar design and in a rainbow of pastel shades. As matrons of honor the bride's sisters, Mrs. C. Skinner wore yellow and carried mauve and white carnations, and Mrs. W. Benn wore blue and carried pink and white carnations. As bridesmaid, Miss LaVerne Thomas, cousin of the bride, had chosen her gown in a soft peach shade and carried yellow

Pastor Returns

Pastor G. Hochstetter of the Sidney Seventh-day Adventist church returned Sunday, having spent a week at the Okanagan Academy at Rutland, B.C. Pastor Hochstetter was guest speaker there as the faculty and students engaged in a week of prayer and special devotional meetings.

He states that in addition to meeting with and counselling the academy students, he also addressed the upper and lower divisions of the elementary school, and in the evenings held services for the adult members of the church. The enrolment at the academy is 120, and serves for the young people of Kelowna as well as Rutland.

The Jack Rabbit which naturalists classify as a hare, received its common name from the fact that its long ears were thought to resemble those of a jackass.

P.T.A. Council Continues Workshops

Saanich Peninsula P.T.A. council held its regular meeting at Mount Newton high school on Monday, Nov. 10. After the regular business session, members divided into groups according to their offices in parent-teacher associations.

When the allotted time had passed, all gathered to hear the report of the group chairman. This is the second year of the workshop, which is found beneficial to those attending.

Next meeting will be held on Monday, Dec. 8, and the program will include a discussion on improvement of the workshop. Every delegate is urged to turn out to give full support to those working for parent-teacher relations with other higher authorities.

Discuss Welfare At Rest Haven

"Service as broad as human need" was the theme of the annual meeting of the Vancouver Island Dorcas Welfare Federation, held at the Rest Haven Seventh-day Adventist church last Sunday afternoon, with Mrs. Mabley, president, in the chair.

Present at the meeting were delegates from Adventist welfare societies of Victoria, Nanaimo and Alberni, as well as from the local church in Sidney. Progress reports were given by each unit, and plans were presented for the strengthening of the welfare program, stressing the need for disaster preparedness and participation in local community civil defence activities.

TISDALLE SPEAKS

Highlighting the session was an address by John Tisdalle, M.L.A. for Saanich, who emphasized the responsibility of Christians in preparing for impending emergency, both physical and spiritual.

"Throughout our residential areas," declared Mr. Tisdalle, "there should be a place of security in each block of homes where emergency supplies and rations can be stockpiled."

Other guest speakers were Pastor John Hnatyshyn of Oshawa, Ont., director of the Adventist welfare services for Canada, and Pastor Desmond Tinkler of Mission, director for British Columbia.

HELP THOUSANDS

Mr. Tinkler stated that the International operates 34 welfare units in this province, and that in 1957 they gave assistance to over 20,000 needy persons with 65,000 articles of clothing and food at an estimated cash value of $200,000. This includes assistance sent to disaster areas as well as serving those in need in British Columbia.

Officers for the next biennial term, for the Vancouver Island Federation, are Mrs. G. Hochstetter of Sidney, president; Mrs. A. Hall of Alberni, vice-president; Mrs. B. Kwiram of Victoria, secretary; and Mrs. W. Gildersleeve of the Nanaimo unit, associate secretary.

Officers for the welfare society of the local Adventist church include Mrs. D. Schoenmuller, president, and Mrs. C. F. Courser, secretary-treasurer.

Then in cosmetics and gift sets we have the products of three well-known manufacturers: Yardley, Rubenstein and Coty. The lady of your fancy could ask nothing more than one of these three well-respected manufacturer's products.

For the children we've lots of Christmas candy. We have not stinted in our camera section where you'll find all popular models on display. We stock films for all cameras and have a complete line of high-class photographic equipment. Naturally we can process your films quickly. Then there are toys for children of all ages. We've some particularly attractive dollies. Stocking fillers abound and there are colorful Christmas knick-knacks of all types and sizes.

Ask for gift wrappings and stickers... we have a wide variety. Parking is free and convenient at the Royal Oak Pharmacy. Drop in on your way to town next time.

Some of the nostrums (ready to use remedies) of the 17th and 18th centuries were so highly respected that rulers bought the formula and published them for the benefit of the people. In 1740, English Parliament bought one of these nostrums against gallstones for 5,000 pounds ($25,000) so you can see that these were very valuable and it was such sales as these that brought about the patent laws for such inventions.

CENTRAL SAANICH

Albert Doney Is Named For Seventh Term By Fair Group

British Columbia's 80-year-old North and South Saanich Agricultural Society listened to an enthusiastic report from its president, A. Doney, at its annual meeting held in the Agricultural Hall, Saanichton, on Thursday, Nov. 27.

Mr. Doney reported that in B.C.'s centennial year the society's fair and exhibition had achieved a record in its history for events, exhibits and attendance. The secretary's and treasurer's reports also attested the excellent financial position and the progress made in the second year's work of the society as one of British Columbia's four class "B" exhibitions. Mr. Doney thanked both the secretary and the treasurer for excellent work done and for the co-operation of directors and officers and committee members.

MORE SERVICES

In his report to the meeting Mr. Doney pointed out that as a class "B" exhibition increased demands upon the society's facilities and services had to be met including additional buildings and improvements to the water system. These had been adequately met with co-operation of all concerned. With this spirit prevailing the society looked forward to continued success as B.C.'s 80-year-old island exhibition and fair. With a history dating back to 1878 the exhibition has become one of the highlights of the year in B.C. with an attendance from far and near.

ELECTION

Following the reading of the minutes and adoption of reports the following officers and directors were elected to serve for the coming year: president, A. Doney (for his seventh term); first vice-president, Henry G. Robinson; second vice-president, G. P. Aitken; secretary, A. C. Howe (re-appointed); treasurer, Stuart G. Stoddart.

The following were added to the directorate: C. J. Reimer, R. G. Glidden, Bert Andrews, A. Bowker, Joseph Taylor, L. M. Biles.

H. C. Oldfield and Frank Butler were added to the list of honorary patrons. Both have been actively associated with the society for many years. D. Nightingale was appointed to the grounds committee.

Various plans were discussed for advancing the work of the society—including a work bee, also the appointment of a sectional committee

Special and appreciative mention was made of the work done by the ladies. It was intimated that they would meet at a later date to appoint their own convener and directors.

STAMPS NOW SOLD IN BULK AT POST OFFICE

The post office is giving the public a new convenience through "a package deal" in the purchase of postage stamps, which is being introduced in time to facilitate Christmas mailings.

Postmaster General Hon. William Hamilton is trying out a new and more convenient method. It is expected that it will help reduce the buying of stamps "piecemeal" thus saving time for the buyers and congestion in the lobbies.

Special envelopes have been prepared each to contain $1 worth of stamps, one envelope printed in green to contain 50 two-cent stamps and the other printed in blue to contain 50 five-cent stamps.

The new scheme does not interfere with the present arrangements whereby the public can buy whole sheets of postage stamps. The post office hopes that buying in quantity will become a regular habit.

MOTORCYCLIST'S LICENSE IS SUSPENDED

Sidney R.C.M.P. crackdown on motorcyclists continued in police court Friday morning, when a juvenile was fined $5 and $5.50 costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving on the left side of the road. Magistrate D. G. Ashby suspended his driver's license for 30 days, the fifth time in the past six weeks that such penalty has been imposed.

The offence occurred on East Saanich Road, where three young men were driving abreast on their motorcycles.

Plan Turkey Card Party At Brentwood

Annual turkey card party of the Brentwood Women's Institute will be held on Wednesday evening, Dec. 17, in the Institute hall. Final plans for the party, where "500" players will compete for turkeys, were made at the monthly social meeting, held on Tuesday, Nov. 25.

Mrs. Herman Wood, who recently made a motor trip with her husband, Dr. Wood, to New Brunswick, gave an interesting account of the journey, illustrated with colored slides and illustrated on the map.

Mrs. Clair Watts gave the first of a series of talks on the United Nations, which the members found both interesting and instructive. Tea was served by the Misses Howard.

who have a fine herd of purebred Toggenburg goats. As the party was to celebrate Jean Money's 10th birthday, and her initiation into the 4-H movement, the club surprised Jean with two gifts—a 4-H crest, and a birthday cake gaily decorated in green and gold, the 4-H colors.

Miss Rose Smart, vice-president, who acted as chairman in the absence of the president, welcomed six other new members to the club: Margie Lord, Elizabeth Howe, Rickie Couling, Bruce Gordon, Rhodena Cronk and Wendy Baker. During the business session the members discussed the making of Christmas wreaths which the club plans to sell throughout December as a project for raising funds.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. A. C. Howe, who, along with Mrs. E. A. Moore, had assisted Mrs. Money in serving the luncheon, invited clubs to her new home at West Saanich Road and Mount Newton Crossroad for the group's Christmas party.

On December 11th, you are asked to vote for the candidates of your choice, a very important undertaking for you and your future.

For your choice of candidates, if you are a farmer you will probably favour a farmer candidate.

RICHARD GORDON LEE

If you consider length of residence in the area the most important in your choice, then you will probably select a candidate of long-residence here.

Both of these are sound and natural reasons for your choice and in both cases I cannot qualify, nor expect your support or vote.

MUNICIPAL Affairs, however, do require much more.

They require a good knowledge of BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION, MUNICIPAL LAW AND STATUTES, and above all the knowledge and experience of planning and balancing a budget; so necessary to keep your TAXES ON A SOUND BASIS and prevent them from unwarranted increases.

For these reasons, which I believe to be the most important, and for which I can claim to be qualified from many years of experience in the Yukon Territory as a Territorial Councillor with several years' service on the bench, I respectfully solicit your confidence and the right to represent you, by your vote on this very important day. Thank you.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

STILL CONCERNED
Editor, Review,

Sir:
It has been suggested elsewhere that the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce is indifferent to delays in the establishment of a new ferry wharf at Sidney. May I be permitted to clarify the picture.

The Chamber of Commerce has been trying for 30 years to get adequate facilities for ferry and yacht wharfage at the foot of Beacon Ave. in Sidney. Federal governments have promised breakwaters and wharfs time and again. What have they done? Nothing other but stall, conduct surveys, stall, soft pedal, conduct more surveys, stall and on and on. Our Chamber of Commerce is vitally concerned in a wharf at Sidney and so are the individual members many of whom have thousands of dollars invested in businesses. We have written to our member of parliament, to the federal minister of public works, other ministers, we have had a member of our chamber interview the government in Ottawa, we have put forward every reasonable argument we know. We have begged them to fulfill their promises both in recent months and over the years.

Fortunately for Vancouver Island there is one government that is not just full of promises and buck passing but one that is concerned in what the people want and the welfare of the province. I of course refer to Premier W. A. C. Bennett's which has announced the establishment of a fast ferry service between the Saanich Peninsula and the mainland and has let contracts for the construction of two modern ferries. As some suggest, the ferries may be built before Ottawa wakes up to the fact a wharf has to be built.

For so many practical reasons Sidney is the logical place for the wharf and the foot of Beacon Ave. the place in Sidney. Sea captains who have plied these waters for years contend Sidney to be more desirable from a navigational standpoint than Swartz Bay. The Washington State Ferries favor Sidney and have offered to pay for a wharf if constructed in Sidney. The vast majority of people favor Sidney which is a thriving business centre. Customs and immigration are established in costly buildings at the foot of Beacon Ave.

The present federal government not only promised a wharf in Sidney but stated many months ago their intention of building it without delay. This last promise was made by our member and Minister of Defence the Hon. G. R. Pearkes. I feel that the reason no action has been taken recently is beyond his control for no man either in or out of politics is of higher integrity.

Mr. Editor, if you have any suggestions that might result in getting action out of Ottawa, I as president of the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce, would be most interested in receiving them.
M. R. EATON.

mitted an excellent report of the year's activities, including the three days' camping at Glen Lake.

Guides Allison Skinner has been promoted to Guide Leader and Cathie Douma to Patrol Leader. Each patrol—four in all—is providing a Christmas hamper for needy families. Used clothing has been collected for the Salvation Army. Cards for pensioners and stuffed toys for Woodland's mentally retarded children are being made.

Brown Owl Mrs. O. Thomas reported for the First Sidney Pack Brownies: 19 meetings were held during the year with 43 members on Roll Call, and two Tawny Owls assisting. Two bench parties were held. In February, Thinking Day ceremony and enrolment, with two commissioners and many mothers present, was held.

COOKIE WEEK

Mrs. F. Storey looked after the Brownies during Cookie Week while Brown Owl was on holiday. One church parade was held at St. Andrew's church and on November 11 Brownies paraded with Guides and had a wreath on the cenotaph.

On November 4, Brownies had fly-up, with two commissioners and a wonderful turnout of parents present. Home cooking and games were sold at that time. There were 14 Golden Bells and nine Golden Hands presented to Brownies, also eight pairs of Wings to those who flew up to Guides. Also presented were four third year Stars, nine second year and 20 first year. Three houseworkers, one knitters, two needleworkers and one collector's badges have been won during the year.

The good turn this year is making lavender bags to send each with a handkerchief and card to patients in the mental hospital; also the

Mexican Visitor Calls In At Brentwood Waterfront

Brentwood fishing was good during November, for those who didn't mind getting wet. The final week of the month yielded especially good catches for waterproof anglers, with one "Pop" Harrison from Victoria taking the biggest spring—in 18½-pounder. Steady fishing couple John and Winnie Rose did well in the 10- to 14-pound class of springs, with several good catches in the final week of November. Weight for the springs was about a pound, with 150 to 200 feet of line.

For fishermen who like their catches pan-sized, the grilse were up to the two-pound mark, and there were plenty of jack-springs in the three-to four-pound class. Lots of small bluebacks were about too. Tod Inlet, Indian Bay and Brentwood Bay were good spots.

TROPHIES

Half a dozen of Victoria's sporting goods stores offered trophies, to be given for winter and spring fishing. Each month's winner will be chosen from among members of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association, and will receive one of the cups. The Saanich Inlet Boatmen's Association is also offering a trophy to go to the fisherman catching the largest spring between December 1 and May 1.

Large, early morning visitor to Brentwood Bay in the sma' hours last week was the 540-foot gypsum carrier, Harry Lunenburg. This vessel, which brings some 500 tons of gypsum up-coast from Mexico, usual tray cards for Rest Haven Christmas.

The financial balance is $25. Mrs. Douma reported that she had been informed that Mr. Knapp would be working on nursery stock in California all winter, but hopes to hold a sale here in Sidney next spring.

It was decided that the medical examination necessary for all members attending Guide and Brownie camp last summer be paid equally by the association and the mothers, the fee being $2.

Mrs. J. N. Champion was asked to attend the meeting to be called by Chairman Alan Calvert for the distribution of Christmas hampers. All reports being read, the election of officers was held: president, Mrs. M. McLeod; vice-president, Mrs. J. H. Currie; secretary, Mrs. W. G. Laing; treasurer, Mrs. G. Gray.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Following new chums of Sidney Cubes "B" pack have been invested as Cubs: Colin Inkster, David Kerr, Nick Lott, Brian Benn, Gordon Shanks, Brock Anderson, Peter Radd, Douglas Frizzell, Martin Heywood and Peter Heywood.

HOSPITAL ACCEPTS LARGE NUMBER OF ADMISSIONS

The Lady Minto Gulf Islands hospital report shows that in the period between November 7 and 28 there were 47 admissions, of which three were from Mayne, seven from Pender, six from Galiano, eight from Fulford and one from Port Moody.

There were two births on November 8: a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Akerman of Fulford, and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Grimmer of Port Washington.

Gifts to the hospital and to staff were received from Mrs. S. LaFortune, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. K. Murakami, Mrs. C. Watmough, Mrs. V. C. Morris, Ladies' Guild of St. Mark's, Galiano, and Mrs. Macgregor Macintosh of Victoria.

Mrs. J. McNair is now on the staff of the hospital, replacing Mrs. Ira White. Last week the hospital was visited by Miss Jackson, provincial dietary inspector of public institutions, and Mr. Rose, inspector of private hospitals, both of Victoria.

The recent power failure which lasted for 12 hours on Salt Spring caused the hospital to be unable to use the X-ray equipment so that it was necessary to send a patient to Victoria. Fortunately there were no births or major operations during the period and the hospital carried on with rock gas stoves and hot water.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stevens Mark Silver Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stevens of Beaver Point celebrated their silver wedding anniversary on Friday, Nov. 28, and in honor of the occasion, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stevens gave a buffet supper at their home.

The table was beautiful with yellow and white chrysanthemums and paper streamers in matching colors. Green candles in silver holders and evergreens and colored lights added a bright touch to the setting.

Among the guests were two from Ladner, a brother and sister of Mr. Stevens, Nick Stevens and Mrs. Sileck, who made the trip especially to honor their brother and sister-in-law. Other guests present were Mr. and Mrs. H. Ruckle and Miss Nan Ruckle, Mr. and Mrs. G. Ruckle and Miss Gwen Ruckle, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Butt, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Patterson, F. Pyatt, Mr. and Mrs. J. Klassen, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hepburn, Mr. and Mrs. D. Fraser, K. W. Loxton and Mrs. A. Bennett.

After the supper, all the guests gathered at the Beaver Point hall where an open house entertainment in honor of Mr. and Mrs. A. Stevens was held. Here the windows were decorated with posies of flowers and streamers, while a huge silver figure of the number, 25, graced the wall. Mrs. G. Ruckle, with the Misses Nan and Gwen Ruckle and Miss Sheila Reynolds were responsible for the hall decorations.

Mrs. A. Stevens wore a pretty pink taffeta dress and a corsage of orchids.

The toast to the couple was proposed by Dr. L. Lambert of Solmar Resort, and responded to by Mr. Stevens, who thanked the many friends who offered congratulations and gifts and cards. A beautiful silver teaset was the gift from the family.

Miss Nan Ruckle started things off by playing the anniversary waltz and the evening was taken over by square dancing and fun. Refreshments were served and the highlight of the supper table was a splendid wedding cake made by Mrs. Sileck of Ladner, and decorated by her daughter, Mrs. D. Ingram.

TELEGRAM
A telegram of congratulations from Ladner was received and came from the 20 nephews and nieces.

The Stevens family are well known and greatly respected on Salt Spring. They are old-timers, as the family came to the island in 1886 and the children were born here. Andrew Stevens was married 25 years ago, and has made his home at Beaver Point.

He received his education on Salt Spring and at Ladner. He has three brothers, Nick at Ladner, Benny at Banff, and Peter at Beaver Point; two sisters, Mrs. Lena Howard of Banff, and Mrs. Irene Seleck of Ladner.

Randy Young, rocking horse; and Roberta Akerman and Valerie Hollings for stuffed cat. Miss Mhora Hepburn was responsible for cash.

TEA SERVED

Tea was served at individual tables in a room in the school under the direction of the home economics teacher, Mrs. Joyce Fowler, by Misses Sylvia Aylwin, Laurel Bell, Joan Bidwell, Susan Graham, Jean Galbraith, Norma Fennell, Rita Kitchen, Marilyn Parsons, Gladys Patterson and Penny Smith. Several of the girls helped pour at a large central table highlighted by a large bowl of pink chrysanthemums, circled by pale green tapers in silver holders.

Hostesses were Marguerite Gear and Marcia Sober, while at the door were Lynda Baker and Doreen Bennett.

"IT COULD HAPPEN TO YOU"

SAYS EMBARRASSED SHOPPER

By B. C. HAMILTON

A well known resident of Salt Spring Island went to Victoria one day last week to do a little shopping, and what happened to her could happen to anyone. No, I am not going to tell you who she was—we'll call her Mrs. X. That will keep you guessing. Now to get on with the story.

Mrs. X met a friend, who exclaimed so much about the sale of some costume jewelry at Eaton's, that Mrs. X decided to go and just take a peek at the jewelry. She arrived at said counter and found that just about every other woman in Victoria had the same idea. Nothing daunted, Mrs. X squeezed in and peered over heads and shoulders, and being tallish (that should give you a clue) she was able to glimpse the sparkling beads, bangles and baubles, but that was all.

OUT OF THE SCRIMMAGE
She could not have reached them if she had tried. So, clutching her shopping bag, she pushed her way out of the scrimmage (I have been watching the Grey Cup and "scrimmage" applies equally well to a sale or a football game). Anyway, our friend went gaily and innocently on her way (or so she thought) and headed for bus and home. And when it was too late to do anything about it, she rummaged in her shopping bag and—Heavenly days! she had—no, it was not the wrong shopping bag—it was far worse . . . she found a gorgeous genuine piece of costume jewelry reposing in her bag, minus wrappings and with the $1 tag attached!

Here was crime staring poor Mrs. X in the eye and she had momentary visions of what could have happened if some store detective had caught up with her. She could never have explained the incident, innocent though she was. Mrs. X can only surmise that some would-be-dishonest person had slipped the jewelry into her bag by mistake, so there must be a puzzled and frustrated shoplifter somewhere in the city.

And Mrs. X? Well, the hot jewelry is going back to the owners and this story is told to warn you that you could be the next victim. So, ladies, watch those shopping bags of yours.

LITTLE MAMMALS

The food of the deer mice and white-footed mice is mostly seeds of grasses, weeds and berries which they carry in their cheek pouches and often store by the quart. Eating in bed is customary. They do not hibernate. After every fresh snow their tiny tracks show where they have been foraging the night before. To this diet they add hicks, insects, spiders, centipedes and land snails. Small rodents such as these need more food in proportion to their weight than do larger warm-blooded animals. A one-ounce mouse eating a half-ounce of food per day is no better fed than a 1,000-pound horse eating 20 pounds a day.

Deer mice and white-footed mice are prolific. The females begin to breed at two months of age and bear litters of about four or five young each month throughout a large part of the year. The pink wrinkled naked young are born with their eyes and ears closed. The eyes open after two weeks and at three weeks, when half-grown, they are weaned. Then their mother moves out and builds a new nest. Two years is a ripe old age because almost every night-hunting owl and meat-eating mammal preys on them.

They won't eat cheese and they don't smell mousetraps.

Residents Protest Number System In Sidney Village

Re-numbering of Sidney homes has occasioned a protest from a group of village residents.

One householder has protested that the crews engaged in the project nailed new numbers into the elegant front door of his home. A number of residents have reported that the numbers on their homes were mounted without speaking to the owner of the house.

Commissioner A. A. Cormack, chairman of the public works committee, investigated complaints at the end of last week and issued instructions that no private property was to be defaced.

Engaged in the undertaking are staffs of the Capital Region Planning Board, which contracted to carry out the work.

NEW POLICY

The numbering project brings the village into line with the new policy of numbering throughout Saanich Peninsula. It has been necessary with the impending installation of automatic telephones. In the spring all telephones in the district will be replaced by automatics and fire alarm calls will be made to a specific telephone number. Such a call will be accepted by Saanich Fire Department and relayed by radio to the fire department here. The number and location of the house involved must be given to avoid confusion in the relaying of the message.

FORMER SIDNEY RESIDENT IS CALLED BY DEATH

Oak Bay man with close and long connections with Sidney passed away on Saturday, Nov. 29, in Victoria. He was William Frederick Utting Copeman. His daughter is Mrs. G. R. Pearkes, wife of the minister of national defence.

Mr. Copeman was born in Norfolk, England, 87 years ago. He had been a resident of Vancouver Island for the past 50 years. During his residence for many years in Sidney he built the large residence overlooking Tsehum Harbor, which he named The Latch. It is still among the most impressive homes of Saanich Peninsula. The former Sidney man was also an accomplished painter.

Mr. Copeman leaves his wife, Sybil, at home; his daughter, Mrs. Pearkes; a son, J. U. Copeman of Victoria; a brother, Gordon Copeman of Victoria; a granddaughter, John Pearkes, and a granddaughter, Ann Copeman, both of Vancouver.

Last rites were observed on Wednesday, Dec. 3, at Christ Church Cathedral when Archdeacon Harold Sexton officiated. Interment followed in Royal Oak Burial Park. Haywards were in charge of arrangements.

ACCLAMATION

REEVE H. R. BROWN

TRUSTEE R. SINKINSON

As nominations for municipal elections closed on Monday at midday, two local representatives were returned by acclamation. They were Reeve H. R. Brown of Central Saanich, who was elected by acclamation for the second time in succession, and Trustee Reginald Sinkinson, who also followed a precedent by resuming his seat of Saanich School District, to which office he is returned by Saanich municipality. A third representative, Trustee J. D. Helps, was returned unopposed recently when he appeared before the annual ratepayers' meeting of the North Saanich unorganized territory.

MORE ABOUT LEE

A native of Portsmouth, in England, Mr. Lee came to Canada immediately following the First World War and worked in a mine in Kimberley for a time. He was a veteran of the Royal Navy. He had an uncle in the Klondike and after a year or so he turned northwards and joined his relative.

BIG MONEY

For 36 years he remained in the north country, starting out as a miner and completing his service in the community as mining accountant. Two years ago the Mayo district yielded $13,000,000 in silver, copper and other metals. This compares with a yield of about $3,000,000 in gold from the Klondike. Mr. Lee can remember the day when the mine now offering so substantial a yield was merely moss, muskeg and rock.

Success of the high metal content is solely due to the high metal content of the ore. Averaging 50 per cent silver, the ore can be profitably worked, he explained. In B.C. an eight per cent ore can be handled economically, said Mr. Lee, but an ore of a lower yield in the Klondike would be unprofitable.

The latter years of his life in the Yukon were spent in Whitehorse, where he established himself as a merchant. Each year he would come south on a buying trip. The appeal of British Columbia made itself felt after the harsh climate of the far north.

FOUND HIS HOME

Exploring Vancouver Island, he found Central Saanich while on one of his trips. He then and there decided that he had found the place for his retirement. When, a few years ago, he decided to retire, he built a home in Brentwood and there he is today.

During his residence in the north country, he served nine years with the Yukon Territorial Council. For one three-year term he represented Mayo and for two further terms he was elected from Whitehorse. It was in 1952 that he was in Ottawa to negotiate the first tax agreement with the Dominion government on behalf of the council.

Now living contentedly in a mild climate, Mr. Lee still looks to his old home with affection and plans to make a regular trip north to further interests he still owns in the historic land of the Klondike.

New Studio Comes To Sidney

Professional photographer, formerly with the provincial government, has established a studio in Sidney. Clarence Ferris, chief photographer with the government until three years ago, has opened his Sidney Studios in the Third St. property formerly occupied by the Potter's Wheel.

Mr. Ferris was with the government for 41 years. Commencing in 1914, he was messenger boy for H. R. McMillan, then chief firester. In 1915 he went overseas with the 103rd Battalion. He was wounded in France and later gained his discharge in 1919, returning to the government service.

It was not until 1931 that Mr. Ferris became associated with photography other than as a hobby. He became the official photographer to the travel bureau, then the baby of the finance minister. The new branch was formally recognized in 1929. During an eight-year period Mr. Ferris completed a 10-year program of photographing almost every corner of the province.

While with the government Mr. Ferris was a frequent visitor to this district to show films of the province. His swansong with the civil service was in Sidney, when he addressed the North Saanich Rod and Gun Club in 1954.

The new studios will open at the end of the week.

LUXURY LINER HAD SHADY REPUTATION

Ever wonder how the word "Posh" found its way into our language? "Posh" is another word for luxury, and its origin is an interesting one. The Pacific and Orient Steamship Line between Great Britain and the Orient used to charge a premium for cabins on the shady side of the ship.

Since the shady side was the port, or left-hand side, on the outward voyage, and the starboard, or right-hand side, when homeward bound, the cabins were referred to as Port Outward — Starboard Home, or P-O-S-H.

Words are fascinating creatures. They have so many faces. Take the word "bank", for example. It can mean the ground near a river, an establishment for the custody of money or, when it's used as a verb, security of feeling, absolute reliability. "You can bank on it," we say.

These last two meanings bear a connection that is far from coincidental. The fact is, a bank represents security and reliability, especially the Bank of Montreal.

And, of course, saving at the Bank of Montreal doesn't only mean your money is safe. It also means that with money in the bank you can often take advantage of unexpected opportunities that might otherwise pass you by.

Change Is Made in Valuation Of Building Permits Issued

W. R. Cannon, building inspector for the North Saanich Regulated Area, announces a change in the manner of calculating building values. In the past the value of a structure has been based on an arbitrary scale of assessment, producing a figure considerably below that of the market value of the finished structure.

Under the new scale, also an arbitrary measurement, the value of the structure will be assessed on a basis more nearly in keeping with market values.

In neither case does the estimated value have any relation to the assessed value of the building. This latter value is calculated by a different department and is arranged for the purpose of imposing an equitable taxable value.

With the introduction of the new basis of estimated costs, this year's building values cannot be compared with those of any previous year. The only direct comparison between 1958 and earlier years will be by the number of residences rather than by their value.

In November of the current year six dwellings were undertaken as compared with only two in 1957 during the same month. Two miscellaneous permits were issued in November, 1958 as compared with four during the same month last year.

Value of permits issued this past month amounted to $67,350.

POLICY PROVES EFFECTIVE SAYS BLAIR

Policy of making all purchases within the school district adopted by Saanich School District recently is proving satisfactory. Secretary A. G. Kiernan Outlines Wenner Gren Deal

With the assurance that nothing has been given away, Hon. Kenneth Kiernan, provincial minister of mines, presented an audience at Brentwood Institute hall on Tuesday evening last week with a picture of the north of British Columbia.

The minister illustrated his lecture with slides taken on a tour by air of the Stewart-Cassiar region and of the Rocky Mountain Trench.

The province has given nothing to the Wenner-Gren interests, he assured his audience. In the first instance the province had required a performance bond from the company in the amount of a half-million dollars, he recalled and this amount had been promptly furnished. The government had then placed a reserve on the territory in the trench likely to be flooded in the event of a power unit being constructed. Mr. Kiernan explained that there were many people who made a habit of filing claims in the path of any such development with the sole intention of demanding compensation in the event of development. The reserve prohibits any activity, he explained and only those whose claims were staked before the Wenner-Gren plan was introduced will be eligible for compensation.

There is no richer claim than the one which is inundated, noted the minister.

NO PRIVILEGES
The Wenner-Gren interests have no special privileges and no special claims, said Mr. Kiernan. There have been no plans presented and no claims made. At the present time the company has a number of exploration parties in the field, but until a concrete plan is presented there will be no rights granted to the company.

Upon later being questioned on this aspect of the picture, Mr. Kiernan explained that in the development of a small city property, the sponsors of the construction envisaged must prepare plans ahead of time. If the project fails to gain local approval the cost of those plans is lost, he said. The Wenner-Gren Company is in the same position. They must invest heavily to investigate the country. The government advised the principals of the company that no consideration would be given to the proposals until such time as the company could offer a concrete plan of its intentions. Only at that time will any permits be granted, said the minister.

KITIMAT

Also in response to a question from the floor, the minister referred to the Alcan project at Kitimat. He had no desire to criticize an earlier regime, he observed, but mistakes had undoubtedly been made in connection with the Alcan project. The government would certainly not repeat those mistakes, he assured his audience, but whether or not other and new mistakes would arise was impossible to guarantee.

The minister showed his flight, commencing with the session of the legislature, across the straits and to Vancouver. From Vancouver the flight went north, after viewing the P.G.E. Railway. The minister illustrated the geographical nature of the north and warned his audience not to assume that Prince George and Fort St. John were in the far north. Prince George lies almost exactly in the geographical centre of British Columbia, he pointed out. There is as much territory of the province to the north of Prince George as there is to the south.

As the plane was depicted flying over Stewart on the Bear River, Mr. Kiernan noted that Stewart derives its importance from the fact that it is the northernmost port of British

HON. KENNETH KIERNAN

Columbia. Any point north of that port is shielded from the sea by the Alaskan Panhandle.

From Stewart to Cassiar the plane's crew observed only one sign of human habitation. This was a geological survey and the plane landed on the adjacent lake in order to speak with the isolated party. During their rest on the lake the pilot tested out the emergency fishing gear, reported the minister. They reached the conclusion that they would shudder to rely on its effectiveness to fend against starvation. The gear is part of the compulsory equipment on a plane in the far north and the interior. It is carried in order to provide for emergency rations if the plane is forced down far from any civilized outpost.

The plane then went on to Cassiar, where, explained Mr. Kiernan, they are mining asbestos. Until asbestos was mined there was no Cassiar. It has built up gradually around the mines. The asbestos is graded and only No. 1 is taken out. This product is trucked to the Alaska Highway. There it is ultimately transferred to the cars of the Yukon and White Rock Railway. By rail it is shipped to Skagway in Alaska. At this point the asbestos is transferred to ships and is then brought to Vancouver. The cost of the transportation over many hundreds of miles is substantial and it is "very nearly gold-plated" by the time it reaches the Vancouver market. Opening up of the Stewart-Cassiar Highway will not only offer a direct route for the asbestos, but will open up vast tracts of land lying between the two communities.

The journey then took the audience to Whitehorse and the extension of the P.G.E. to Peace River Block.

They Fly Hundreds of Miles Without Seeing Habitation

Coming south, the minister's journey passed through the Rocky Mountain Trench. He illustrated the vast areas of muskeg and small trees. The area was not suitable for agriculture in his opinion, he stated. This was particularly the case, he added, in view of the vast tracts available for agriculture in the Fraser Valley, which boasted a more equitable climate and close proximity to the main markets.

The trees, which were suitable for little more than pulp, rarely reached a diameter exceeding 14 inches. The growth in that cold country was slow, he noted, and it was estimated that a pulp crop required 100 years to reach maturity.

During the journey over the many hundreds of miles, there were only three settlements passed, explained Mr. Kiernan. The first was a horse ranch, lying seven days' journey by pack horse from the nearest post office. The owner was obliged to travel seven days to get his mail and another seven to return. He met no human being in that journey unless a nomadic tribe of Indians happened to be in the vicinity. The horses were not wintered in the area, said the speaker. The country is not suitable to the growing of winter feed.

The next settlement, lying many miles away, is a larger community, with five buildings. It is a Hudson's Bay Co. trading post. This is the country which is likely to develop into the Wenner-Gren development, he noted. Such a development of the territory is unlikely to seriously affect any residential undertakings in the area.

The restriction placed on the land only applies to the low lying land, he also noted. The minerals are not normally taken from such land, which is largely muskeg. Minerals are normally found in the mountainous country, where they are discovered by an outcropping. If a seam is discovered, then it may well lead to the lower land, he explained, but it is difficult to locate a lode beneath the ground without any indication to follow.

The lecture concluded with a rapid outline of the centennial year developments in B.C.

NOT RESPONSIBLE

During the question period Mr. Kiernan was asked whether he thought a general election should be called to gain public confidence in the Wenner-Gren project. "I don't welcome the idea," said the questioner, Councillor John Windsor, "of participation in the scheme by a former friend of Hitler and Goebbels during the war. I wonder whether if the government took the people of this province into their confidence and called an election it would give you the satisfaction of confirmation."

"I am no more responsible for what lies in your mind than you are responsible for what is in mine," retorted the minister. He observed that the government had been criticized for calling too many elections in the past. To call another would be inviting confirmation of this election-happy procedure.

Of the reference to Axel Wenner-Gren, the minister was sharply critical.

"I cannot understand this type of thinking," he stated. "It says that we cannot get along with people who were neutral during the war. We are not fighting Germany. I think that is the most unpleasant character assassination that has been perpetrated on Axel Wenner-Gren. He was blacklisted during the war on suspicion. It was never established. This man represents a country with which we were never at war, yet there are people who want to fight the neutrals after the war is over with Germany."

In reply to a further question from Councillor Windsor, Mr. Kiernan said he was not asking for cessation of criticism.

"I object to accepting rumor as fact and then bouncing from fallacy to fallacy," he said.

NO POWER POOL

Why is there a power commission for the generation of cheap power, asked V. C. Dawson, if the new project is not going to benefit a power pool? Why not develop power nearer the coast? he enquired.

Mr. Dawson explained that he had been hearing an address by a man who knew far more about the natural resources of the province than anyone at this meeting. He had been assured that a New York company had approved a plan for a power installation on the Hamathka River. The fish had to be lifted only a matter of 30 feet, he noted.

"If you have the answer to the fish problem you have something we haven't," replied the speaker.

He observed that there was not only the raising of the fish past the dam, but the return of the small fish from the spawning grounds without passing them through the turbines. There was no answer to the problem at the present time, he assured his audience.

"We may be unduly concerned about the fishing industry," he suggested, "but it has been an important industry for a good many years."

EXPERIMENTAL FARM NOTES

WEEKLY REPORT OF NORTH SAANICH STATION

ILLUSTRATION STATIONS

From time to time an article will appear in this column dealing with agronomic research and farm management studies on the Illustration Stations at "Up-Island" points. This week's article will describe the functions of the Illustration Stations. At present there are three in operation, these are the farms of Bert Young at Duncan, Allen Galloway at Cedar and Jim Casanave at Courtenay. Some experimental work is still in progress on the farm of Frank Parr at Cobble Hill.

First of all we must realize that the Illustration Stations are owned and operated by the farmers who work with the Experimental Farm under contract. For this each one receives a remuneration according to the area of land used for experimental purposes, but scarcely sufficient to cover any loss in crops or time resulting from it. The operator also willingly gives up a considerable amount of time in showing the experimental work to visitors as a service to his community. The Illustration Station operator is still faced with the same problem that every farmer is faced with, that of making a living off his farm.

The name "Illustration Stations" is a carry-over from the past when their chief function was to demonstrate and teach better farm practices through the use of fertilizer plots, cereal variety tests, grass and legume demonstrations and annual field days. Today their function is to evaluate how new scientific discoveries can be applied to practical farming operations. Even if a farmer has the necessary capital to try out new things he may not be prepared to take the risk, but someone must try out the new ideas in a practical way and relate the results to the actual farming economy. The Illustration stations serve this purpose and when the inevitable pitfalls of a new method have been eliminated it can then be recommended to the farming community. It is understandable that as a result of being among the first to try a new practice the Illustration Station operators have suffered the occasional financial setback but on the other hand have more than recuperated these losses by the early adoption of practices which have paid off.

EYEGLASSES

It is a mistake to try to wear other people's glasses or to fit cheap glasses to your eyes. Eyes are too precious to take chances with them. Have the vision tested by a reliable eye specialist before wearing any glasses. Then have your own prescription filled.

While new practices are being tested at several Illustration Stations a complete set of farm accounts is kept to determine the profit that can be expected under a variety of climatic and soil conditions.

CENTRES OF RESEARCH

The Illustration Stations are also centres of basic research. Many problems encountered in the area are studied there under similar soil and climatic conditions. The research work is carried out by the Illustration supervisor and the plotman with considerable professional assistance from the research officers at the Experimental Farm. Research is presently being concentrated on irrigation, soil fertility and forage crops. Routine testing of grasses, legumes and cereal varieties is also carried on to determine their suitability under various soil and climatic conditions. The results of research projects and variety tests will be reported in this column from time to time.

In addition to serving the community as a proving ground for new practices and a research centre, the Illustration Stations still serve as a rallying point for farmers and extension workers and the experiments serve for demonstrations and field days as in the past.

GROUP WILL CONTRIBUTE TO CHURCHES

Bazan Bay group of St. Paul's and Shady Creek W.A. met on Tuesday evening, Nov. 25, at the home of Mrs. M. B. East, Ebor Terrace, with 14 members present. The devotional was taken by Mrs. W. McLeod. Mrs. P. Whitehouse gave a reading on Alaska, taken from the book "Concerns of a Continent".

The treasurer's report showed a good balance, and it was decided that a financial contribution should be sent to each of the two churches. An interesting letter was read from the missionary in Korea, in which acknowledgment was made for parcels received. The members decided to make up the usual food hampers for distribution to deserving families in the district, and a gift was sent to Mrs. Jones, a former member who has left to reside in Victoria.

A social time followed the meeting with Mrs. McLeod and Mrs. Pugh as hostesses. Next meeting will be held on January 27 at the home of Mrs. Carl Davies, Marshall Road.

There Was Only One Says Gibbs

Closer analysis of the recent ratepayers' annual meeting in the unorganized territory of Saanich School District has been furnished by J. W.

Gibbs, president of the Deep Cove Property Owners' Association. Last week The Review carried a report that of a total attendance of 29, only 17 were representative of the ratepayers of the district attending without a direct interest in schools. Mr. Gibbs points out that 11 of the audience were representing his association and that two were appearing on behalf of the North Sidney Property Owners' Association. Of the remaining ratepayers present, said Mr. Gibbs, only one was in attendance without a connection with a larger group. He was Lewis Harvey, of Lands End Road. Mr. Harvey is reported to be the only ratepayer at the meeting who attended without either being urged to do so by a community organization or by his direct interest in educational matters from a professional compulsion.

B.C.'s fame goes around the world as exported products of our fishing industry are enjoyed in many different countries. "My pay cheque is spent to benefit my neighbours in Canada... and my neighbours' spending benefits me!"

It's all of us, each in his own way, buying CANADIAN-MADE products of many kinds, that keep factories and farms busy, create jobs, circulate money, encourage prosperity.

Think of just one familiar Canadian product... cheese... and you'll see what we mean.

You like cheese, so you buy it at a store.

The store got it from a wholesaler who was supplied by a dairy or cheesemaker.

The milk for the cheese came from a Canadian dairy farm.

Result — thousands of Canadians are employed producing, distributing and selling cheese to other Canadians, like yourself, who buy it. And this is equally true of many other CANADIAN-MADE products.

When you don't buy CANADIAN cheese, the dairy farmer, cheesemaker and dairy salesman suffer. Their earnings are cut and they have to stop buying other products. And these may be the very products you depend on for your pay cheque.

To keep Canada prosperous and to prosper, yourself, play safe. Always ask in the stores you buy from: "Is it CANADIAN-MADE?"

Page-Hersey Tubes Limited established 50 years ago to manufacture Canadian pipe, provides jobs for over 1500 employees. Through purchases of Canadian materials and services, this company helps make jobs for thousands of other Canadians; while still others benefit by using and installing Page-Hersey products.

Of the many millions of dollars spent by Page-Hersey Tubes, Limited in the last year for materials and services, 40% was spent right here in Canada. This is a pretty high percentage having regard to the fact that certain machinery peculiar to our industry and certain of our raw materials are not made in Canada.

The Old Sweat

By DOUG SMITH

The records don't show it, the high brass won't admit it, but there was near-mutiny in the Canadian Army last war.

This is not mere bunk. I was scuttlebutt; I know because I was with the group at that time.

Around the end of May, 1944, the Canadian Army was on the move. We had been on similar moves many times before on exercise Sparrow, Tiger and Harlequin, but this one was Exercise Overlord, and only one-way tickets were issued.

The roads to Portsmouth lined with vehicles, tanks, and gun carriers of all descriptions were crowded to the verges. Our home away from home was a barbed wire encirclement, part of a huge wooded estate.

There, cut off from all contact with the outside world, trained to a hair spring, nerves taut and tension high, the men waited at the bit.

Like a boxer ready to enter the ring, he was primed and ready for the kill. And then came the stalemate.

The situation could not become indefinitely. Insubordination became common. The Brass met in worried sessions. "Stronger and sterner discipline," barked one brigadier. "Give them plenty of hard work," snorted a major-general.

It remained for a lowly colonel of World War I vintage to solve the problem. "Gentlemen," said he, "I will give you a changed camp within 48 hours." Then he outlined his plan.

Some 48 hours later, the gates opened wide to admit a whole convoy of 60 hundredweight trucks bearing a precious cargo.

GIRLS
Was it gold? Cigarettes? Parcels from home? No siree, it was 1,000 A.T.S. girls all posted for temporary duty as clerks, drivers, cooks, etc.

In no time at all a mammoth dance was organized. Soldiers dutifully brought out pocket combs, buttoned their tunics, and the ladies took over the morale problem of the camp.

From that moment on, there wasn't a speck of trouble. Say what you like, fellas, man can live without cake, but without women? ... well, I ask you?

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

When British Columbia Was Born

CHAPTER XXII

CARIBOO TRAIL

The history of the communities of the upper Fraser is inseparable from the history of the Cariboo Trail. But the route of the men pouring north varied beyond Lytton from the route of the waters pouring south. Some review of the paths of the Argonauts is required.

The earliest gold seekers learned with good reason to fear the Fraser torrents and devised an overland route from Harrison Lake to Lillooet, eastward across the Fraser to Clinton, bearing north and northwest again to Williams Lake and thence north again parallel to the Fraser to Quesnel, then east to Barkerville.

In 1864 this "Cariboo Road" was intersected at Clinton by a new road north from Yale, which made the Cariboo trail a highway from Yale to Lytton, up the Thompson and Bonaparte rivers, west to Clinton where it joined the old trail to Barkerville, cutting off Lillooet and the early route from Harrison Lake.

ORIGINAL START
Lillooet had been the original start of the Cariboo Road. The mile posts between there and Barkerville were numbered by the distance from Lillooet. The earliest settlement was actually a Hudson's Bay fort, Fort Berens, in 1846, but it was of small importance. It was Lillooet's position of prominence at the end of the Harrison Lake Trail and the start of the Cariboo Trail that made the centre famous.

But by-passed by the new route, Lillooet withered. In 1864 it was almost a ghost town. There were two local mining booms in 1864 and 1866, but they were short-lived. More lasting prosperity came to Lillooet in 1913 with the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, opening market routes for expanding cattle ranching and farming.

The new road from Yale passed through Cache Creek, where a provincial boarding school was built in 1875 because the population was too scattered for youngsters to be able to attend a day school; past Spences Bridge, where Thomas Spences' toll bridge (1863) sparked another settlement; and Ashcroft, all on the Thompson-Bonaparte tributaries.

CLINTON
It joined the original Cariboo Road at Clinton, 47 miles from Lillooet. Clinton (twinsite) was laid out by the Royal Engineers in 1868 and named after another British colonial secretary. Clinton had a post office in 1864 and a school in 1873. It developed as a shipping point (P.G.E. railway) for cattle ranches.

Since the year after confederation, Clinton has been famous for its annual ball. In the early years this was "the" social function for everyone lying between Lytton and Loe in Hache, Kamloops and Lillooet.

Folks came by buggy, horse, and on foot. The rough-tough miners and cattlemen left their guns at the door of the courthouse and entered for a ball that sometimes lasted six nights. Historians relate, "It was

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S PUZZLE

BANK OF MONTREAL PRESIDENT SPEAKS

NATIONAL ECONOMY MUST AIM FOR STABILITY TO HOLD DOLLAR VALUE

Achievement of stable prices should be at the forefront of Canada's national economic aims, for if consumer prices continue to advance at the present rate, the purchasing power of our money will be cut in half in the next quarter-century, according to Gordon R. Ball, president of the Bank of Montreal.

Mr. Ball told shareholders of the B of M at their 141st annual meeting in Montreal recently that this potential reduction in the real value of the Canadian dollar is by no means "unrealistic conjecture," since, in the past 21 years, "the consumer price level has in fact doubled, and the value of our dollar has in fact been halved."

Shareholders also heard G. Arnold Hart, general manager, present a statement reflecting growth in both assets and revenues in a period which has seen "an encouraging degree of recovery from the recession in business activity which characterized the greater part of last year." Assets stood at beyond the $3½ billion mark, while net profits exceeded $10.3 million, he reported.

BUSINESS REVIVAL

Mr. Ball said Canada's gross national product is now at an annual rate of $33 billion, or about $1½ billion more than a year ago, while the volume of industrial output—down by more than six per cent in 1957—has expanded by better than two per cent in 1958. Retail trade was generally "buoyant," he added, so that increased consumer spending "proved to be the main stimulus in the upturn of business."

Capital expenditures also continued at a high level, the B of M president reported, with the 1958 total much the same as that for 1957, although less was spent on new industrial and commercial plant and more on new "social capital" in the form of homes, schools, hospitals, roads, bridges and utility services.

Similarly, Canada's export trade for 1958 came close to record figures set in 1957. But, Mr. Ball added, new developments are afoot "that will affect the pattern of international commerce and finance."

NEW BANKING VENTURE

"It is with this conviction and this vision that the Bank of Montreal and the Bank of London and South America Limited have this year joined hands in partnership to form the Bank of London and Montreal (BOLAM)," he said.

"The new bank will develop as a joint enterprise in every way, growing with, and facilitating, the expanding economy and trade of the Caribbean area," the president added.

FISCAL DILEMMA

Reverting to the home scene, Mr. Ball said that without broad government support in the past year, "business conditions would undoubtedly have deteriorated more than they did" and for a government to bolster a sagging economy by supplementing private spending power is now taken for granted.

But, he added, by the same token, neither should it persist too long in overspending, and with the urgent need to achieve a stable price structure, Mr. Ball said he believes the need for "aggressive budgetary and monetary stimuli has diminished."

GENERAL MANAGER

The general manager, presenting the bank's 141st annual statement, reported a year of "substantial growth in our operations" with net profits of $10,356,690, after setting aside $12,533,000 for income taxes. Of this record-high profit, $8,904,504 was provided for shareholders' dividend equal to $1.65 per share, Mr. Hart said, and $2 million was transferred to the B of M's rest account, leaving a balance of undivided profits of $1,565,960.

The bank experienced a slight drop in loan revenues, although the average level during the year was higher than that for 1957 and the number of borrowers increased, the general manager continued. N.H.A. mortgage loans were up $40 million in 1958 to $171 million.

ASSETS PASS $3½ BILLION

B of M assets were at an all-time high of $3,278 million, for an increase of more than $400 million over 1957, an increase which reflected a growth in deposits from $2,632 million to $3,038 million, he reported. Savings depositors increased by some 130,000.

The bank's high liquid position was also well maintained, with quick assets equal to 62.1 per cent of all liabilities to the public, versus 54.8 per cent last year, Mr. Hart continued.

Valuation of B of M premises, after depreciation, stood at close to $41 million, against $36 million a year previous—an indication of the growth and improvement of branch facilities in the year.

FOREIGN BUSINESS

In further reference to the new Caribbean-area bank—BOLAM—the general manager said the core of the new organization consists of 14 BOLSA offices in six Latin-American countries; while its headoffice and branch facilities have been established at Nassau, Bahamas; and premises have been acquired at Kingston, Jamaica, and at Port-of-Spain, Trinidad.

TYPEWRITER SILENCE

Often when typing is done at home, it is necessary to be as quiet as possible in order to hear the telephone or doorbell.

Much of the noise can be eliminated if the typewriter is placed over thick folds of newspaper.

Paint can be removed from white paint prior to painting, by rubbing with a solution consisting of half a glass of ammonia to two quarts of water.

After oiling the sewing machine, it is well to sew through a blotter, which will absorb any excess oil and thus prevent spotting any valuable material.

OUT OF THE MIXING BOWL

She Still Loves Santa

By MURIEL WILSON

Since earliest recollections I have loved that old man in the red suit and the white whiskers. In childhood I knew him as a mysterious personage who entered the house in the dead of night via the chimney. Many a heads-together conference was held on how he could get down the chimney with a bulging sack full of toys and on how the reindeer mounted the roof but never any disbelief of the accomplishment.

There was no reason to doubt... filled stockings and every child's Christmas desire under the trees on Christmas morning was ample proof that Santa was real. When we were quite small even the Christmas tree was a mystery... we never saw sight or sign of it until that breathless moment when the whole family trooped downstairs in gown and slippers and father threw open the parlor door. Yes sir, Santa was a magician and we were properly impressed.

THEY'VE GONE

The mystery and exciting tinglings of Christmas morning have certainly been taken out of our present day Christmas. With at least half a dozen Santas arriving in town seven weeks before Christmas it is no wonder that the old gentleman has become prosaic. He sits in our department stores day after day and promising children the earth... can hardly blame Dr. Frank Chiffon for labelling him a fake. It seems a great pity that one of life's loveliest institutions has been reduced to an advertising gimmick.

And another thing... at a time when peace in the world is so precarious, what are we doing to impress peaceful pursuits on our children? Have you visited this year's toy department? If you haven't you should take a look... never has there been such a display of weapons. Not content with duplicating every kind of gun, manufacturers have now flooded the market with all the modern atomic and rocket missiles. Toy departments have become arsenals. True they are only toys but if you have ever watched children playing with these "toys" you can't help feeling that the war, they are playing at, is very real. How can we teach them Peace on Earth by putting even the facsimile of destruction in their hands?

FASHIONABLE MIRTH

There would be a lot less mirth in the world if it were not for fashion... clothes fashion, I mean. The sack has wilted on its Paris pedestal and fashion slaves are now adjusting themselves to a new style loosely called Empire. It is going to be a good year for the pregnant ladies (fashion wise), they will be able to keep their secret to the end. For those who are not pregnant the Empire look will have place there under suspicion. And there these are these leotards... Dad best be looking to his longies. In the United States they say leotards are replacing the slacks that replaced the house-dresses. In Canada the demand is increasing every day... tight, ankle length pants are becoming big business. Well, all I can say is that in this trouble-ridden world we need laughter. Leotards may be fine for the slim young thing but let those with the wide derriere beware. Let a rearview mirror be your guide if you contemplate the new skin tight pants.

Sometimes it is chilling to hear children echoing their mother. Overheard recently... "Linda, I warn you... you are trying my patience." And a few minutes later playing house and struggling over a piece of paper, "don't touch that, Linda, (in tones of real anguish), that's my baby bonus cheque."

"A mother," wrote a little girl, "is the one who takes care of the children, and if she is not there when you come home from school you wouldn't know how to get your dinner and you wouldn't feel like eating it anyway."

CHIFFON

Chiffon that has a crumpled and limp appearance may be restored by hanging in the bathroom and letting the bathroom fill with steam. After a few minutes of this, the chiffon can be taken into the open air, where it will return to its bright freshened condition.

PETER BARTLEMAN

THESE ARE THE MEN WHO MADE SAANICH

By GINNIE BEARDSLEY

Blacksmithing today is at best a part-time occupation, but in the days when the Saanich Peninsula was first pioneered by the white man, the local blacksmith was a vital part of the community. "For want of a nail . . ." as the saying goes.

On the Saanich Peninsula, from 1859 until near the end of the century, the man to whom Saanich pioneer farmers looked to make sure that horseshoes did not want for nails, nor horses for shoes, was Peter Bartleman.

One of those who reached Victoria on the Norman Morrison in 1853, Peter Bartleman brought with him his wife. He went to work for the Hudson's Bay Company as blacksmith at the Craigflower Farm. Much of the iron that went into the building was shaped on Mr. Bartleman's forge, including the hinges, and many of the nails.

After half a dozen years, Peter Bartleman moved to Saanich. William Thomson, the second white man to settle in Saanich, gave Bartleman six acres on what is now the West Saanich Road, just south of McPhail Road. There the smithy stood, and Bartleman was kept busy making the varied ironware needed by the farmers. Much of his workmanship may be seen in the Pioneer Log Cabin today.

The Bartleman marriage was a childless one, so the heresy evid-
